Dearest Mother,

Here we are in a very nice motel three miles east of St. Johnsbury. We came down from Montreal (or near there) this morning. It was raining and not very good for either sightseeing or pictures, but it cleared up by the time we crossed the border. It was lovely, though hazy, coming down through the islands of Lake Champlain, and over by way of Montpelier. From there we had local stores.

Main Street, St. Johnsbury, Vermont. This shire town of Caledonia County is the gateway between the Green Mountains of Vermont and the White Mountains of New Hampshire.
